Health of frontline workers during the COVID-19 pandemic Rapid Publication Special Issue: The Journal of Concurrent Disorders Guest Editor: Nazilla Khanlou

The COVID-19 pandemic's impact on communities and nations is pervasive and growing. Frontline workers from different sectors and disciplines provide crucial services on a daily basis as first responders. As the high stress working conditions, and under pandemic protocols and policies, continue for months a rapid understanding of health and wellbeing supports for first responders is urgently needed. This special issue will focus on lessons learned from around the globe in relation to effective practices, and also the challenges faced by first responders. By sharing information from across disciplines and settings, pandemic-specific prevention and health promotion practices can be informed. Our frontline workers deserve this.
